FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

P A Safety Management Limited announces new fire safety management division

As part of P A Safety Management Limited's continuous expansion of its product range, the company is pleased to announce that it has launched a new division to provide fire safety management services, branded PASM: Fire Safety Management. At the helm of its team of fire safety experts is Senior Consultant Phil Spurgin, who has over 20 years of experience in fire safety and fire risk management as well as an impressive list of credentials. He has also established a fine reputation as a skilled and respected trainer.

PASM: Fire Safety Management provides fire risk assessments to assist clients in fulfilling their legal duties effectively and responsibly. The division offers a comprehensive list of training courses designed to meet the requirements under the Regulatory Reform Fire Safety Order 2005. The training locations are flexible and courses can also be held in house.

PASM: Fire Safety Management chooses to focus on the management aspect of fire risk and not on selling equipment that a properly prepared fire risk assessment may well reveal to be unnecessary. Managing Director Paulo Anaia explains, "We don't sell fire extinguishers. Whilst these may indeed be needed in some cases, our efforts are better prioritised to providing clients with practical solutions to their fire safety management needs." Phil Spurgin adds, "Our fire safety management services are honest and down-to-earth. We do not compile generic, tick sheet, computer-generated fire risk assessments or blind you unnecessarily with fire science. Our solutions are sensible and site specific, and clients will find them informative, useful and cost-effective."
